2.7.5 Performance of trainees on various assessment tasks reflects how far their initially identified learning needs are catered to.

At T.N. Rao College of Teacher Education, a teacher's aptitude test is conducted as part of the entry requirements. This test is specifically designed to evaluate the potential teaching skills and educational aptitudes of the candidates, ensuring they possess the necessary qualities to contribute effectively to the B.Ed & M.Ed. program. The test focuses on various aspects of educational methodologies and pedagogical strategies, aiming to identify individuals who are not only knowledgeable but also possess a natural inclination toward teaching and mentoring students.

In addition to the aptitude test, T.N. Rao College continuously conducts surveys to gather information about students' preferences and interests in cultural activities, sports, and other extracurricular pursuits. These surveys provide critical insights into the diverse interests of the student body, allowing the college to tailor its educational strategies and extracurricular offerings to meet the varied needs of its students.

The performance of trainees on various assessment tasks reflects how well their initially identified learning needs are catered to throughout the program. By integrating both the evaluation of teaching aptitudes and understanding student interests, T.N. Rao College strives to foster an inclusive and dynamic learning environment. The college is dedicated to recognizing and nurturing the unique strengths and passions of each student, ensuring that their educational journey is comprehensive and fulfilling. This holistic approach ensures that the initially identified learning needs of trainees are effectively addressed, leading to better performance in assessment tasks and overall academic success.
